It is six days to the TOTO Christmas Festival that is scheduled to take place on December 10, at Namboole Stadium. Some of you are still contemplating on whether you should attend or not. You may be wondering what is in it for you?

Businesspeople are already calculating the hours they will spend at the festival. Others, especially fathers, have already decided in their minds that the event is for children and their mothers. However, this should not be the case. You have all reasons to attend the family fun-filled festival organised by New Vision-Toto magazine.

WHY THE TOTO CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL IS A MUST ATTEND

Beatrice Lando, the headteacher of Ocean Fields Preparatory School in Mukono, says the festival can be fun for the whole family.

"A festival is not only a children's affair, but a family get together," she explains. For all those families that enjoy having fun, the Toto festival is the place to be.

Apart from activities such as face painting, bouncy castles, camel riding and skipping, parents spend quality time with their children.

Besides, festivals bring together children and parents from different walks of life. It is amazing to see children from different schools come together, not to study, but just to have fun.

During this year's Toto Festival, you will meet singers such as Pastor Wilson Bugembe, King Saha, Gravity Omutujju, Mun G, Big Eye and several others.

Aunt Grace of Toto magazine says it was amazing to see children having fun during the Christmas party for soldiers and their families in Bombo Barracks last year. For some, it was the first time ever to play on bouncy castles. One of the soldiers who was almost in tears said his children had only seen bouncy castles on television. But now Toto brings you all the kiddie fun you would ever imagine in one place at only sh10,000 per child and free to adults, surely you cannot afford to miss!

After spending months waking up very early for school, this is the perfect early Christmas every child needs to relax and enjoy themselves.
