

the schools is remembered.

Busoga's poor performance started way back during the inception teachers and pupils. The recently released 2017 PLE results have made it worse, with many schools producas casual labourers on times carrying sugar cane to the factories.

Faisal Kirungana

Govt should provide youth training in oil sector

Recently, the media reported that President Museveni wants all Ugandan experts in the oil and gas sector abroad to come back and help the country nurture the oil sector as the country is targeting oil production in 2020.

However, I am sure many of these people abroad have jobs already not like these redundant youth in the country who are searching for employment opportunities. It is so ridiculous that the President is 'sticking on them' yet we have got a number of unemployed youth in our country.

Furthermore, I appeal to the government to first carry out youth training in oil sector because whenever there is news about oil discovery, many Ugandans' faces beam with excitement expecting that many jobs will be created. But it is so unfortunate that the government only wants the experts from.

However, I don't think oil sector will bring any development in our country as the president sticks on the abroad Ugandans with skills and leave out the unskilled Ugandans with the high electricity costs they are facing, which is affecting education system in schools, especially in rural areas.

Olive Atuhaire,
Kampala

RS > WITH STEPHEN OTAGE

Did you face during the examinations?