

Museveni protect your constitution

EDITOR: On September 26, a number of people across the country were arrested because they protested the move to amend Article 102(b) that stipulates the age bracket in which one is legible to contest for the presidency.

If amended, President Yoweri Museveni and others over the age of 75 will be able to contest for the top office in the 2021 general election.

This is disheartening because President Museveni was instrumental in ensuring that many of us go to school because he used to tell our parents to educate children because "they are the leaders of tomorrow".

Now I cannot stop asking myself who we are going to lead. About 30 years ago, Uganda was in bad shape, but now we are in a position where institutions actually work, so the guidance of President Museveni should be downgraded to guardianship so that others take over the good works he started in 1981.

I believe President Museveni has earned a well-deserved rest. Let him prevail over the NRM to respect their babies, that is the country and Constitution. Crafting laws to make illegalities legal is akin to authoritarianism and it goes against the democracy that President Museveni fought to establish.
