

We can't function without ICT

The world has become technological; you cannot run away from the use of Information and Communication Technology (ICT) today. Numerous nations have raised the bar of technology advancement so high that humankind has been left with no choice but to follow the trend. Uganda has become a country to look up to when it comes to adoption, innovation and development of ICT.

As an effect of the massive ICT maturity, electronic transactions have become more common today.

This is as evident with the increase in e-commerce, payment for goods, services and government dues through electronic platforms such as internet banking, points of sale and mobile money. This was brought about by the creation of an enabling environment through passing of the Electronic Transactions Act No. 8 of 2011, and other Cyber laws

Arthur Musinguzi,
arthurmusinguzi1@gmail.com
