Namugongo's Baziwane eyes medicine

BY RASHID MATSELELE

Samantha Baziwane's dream of becoming a medical doctor is within reach, following her excellent performance in the 2025 Uganda Advanced Certificate of Education exams with 19 points.

She sat her exams at Uganda Martyrs' Secondary School, Namugongo and scored AAB in biology, mathematics and chemistry. She credits her good performance to God, hard work and encouragement from her parents.

"I want to join Makerere University for a bachelor's degree in medicine so that I can become a surgeon," an excited Baziwane told The Weekend Vision.

Baziwane's parents, David Baziwane and Dr Josephine Ssirimuzaawo, could not hide their excitement following their daughter's performance.

"I also appeared in the New Vision after performing well at O'level in 1992. I thank God for this good result," her father said.

Dr Ssirimuzaawo, said her daughter's performance was a result of guidance from teachers, parents and God.
