The Interact Club Day at Rubaga Girls SS is traditionally celebrated on International Women's Day. Held under the theme Boldly You, the event brought together students from several schools across the country in a colourful blend of leadership, talent and entertainment.

The celebration was further elevated by the involvement of Teenz Kulture organisers, who added a lively entertainment line-up that transformed the school gathering into a full youth experience.

The school's main quadrangle quickly turned into a vibrant social space as students mingled, showcased their talents and enjoyed live performances from popular artistes Vinka, Elijah Kitaka and John Blaq, who thrilled the audience with energetic sets that had students singing along.

The stage also featured rising performers including Cami The Baddest, MC Benji and Dreadlazer, while DJ Adam Vybz kept the music flowing throughout the evening. Hosting duties were handled by NTV T-Nation presenter Tim Kash, whose lively interaction with students kept the atmosphere upbeat as the event progressed.

Beyond the entertainment, the day also featured a variety of student performances and presentations centred on women empowerment, with dance groups and talent teams from participating schools taking to the stage.

The activities created a platform for students to express themselves while celebrating confidence, creativity and leadership among young women.

The event attracted participation from several schools, with large student delegations travelling to Rubaga Girls to be part of the celebration. Notably, students from Ntare School and Mbarara High School (Chaapa) made the journey from Mbarara District, covering more than 200 kilometres to attend the event.

Other schools represented included St Elizabeth Girls School Mityana, Uganda Martyrs High School Rubaga, Uganda Martyrs SS Namugongo, Jinja College School, Merryland High School, Namulyango College, and Standard High School Zzana, among others.

The day concluded with the crowning of the new Interact Club leadership and queens of Rubaga Girls, marking the highlight of the school's Interact celebrations and bringing to a close a memorable Women's Day gathering that combined youth engagement, networking and entertainment.
