

Leah Ayanga Eseza, the candidate in Kamuli District receives an award from the LC5 elect, Mr Kaloli Dhizaalana. PHOTOS/SALLY CALEB OPIO

Starlight Kamuli hailed for holistic education

BY OPIO SAM CALEB

Schools have been urged to set traditions and provide holistic education in order to produce children who will fit into the communities they live in.

The Kamuli LC5 elect, Mr Kaloli Dhizaala, made the call during the Starlight Schools thanksgiving and rewarding of Star PLE candidates.

"Starlight has been keen on both academic, secular and co-curricular activities and giving the children hidden curriculum through outreaches to the community. They also do innovations which schools must take on," Mr Dhizaala urged.

The Kamuli LC5 also challenged schools to set their own traditions, culture and identity alongside making teaching and learning pleasurable through participatory leadership, open communication and mentorship.

Mr Daudi Kamaali, the school director, assured that the school will introduce many other innovations including skills based curricular activities, computer science and keep its rewarding culture to parents, learners and staff.

"Last PLE we achieved our longtime dream of striking aggregate 4 and had three candidates scoring it amid a number of challenges," Kamaali revealed.

He urged the candidates to be good academic ambassadors of Starlight in the secondary schools they will join and remember to come back to inspire those they have left in the lower classes.

The LC5 gifted the Aggregate 4 candidate a cash reward of Shs100,000 while parents raised 56 bags of cement to support the modern kitchen construction at the school.

Pupils from the nursery section enjoy a photo moment.

There was plenty of food to eat.

Canon Rebecca Mudondo blesses the Star candidates.